

International Day of Women and Girls in Science

Special online event
A conversation with
Marlee Hutton
Tuesday 22 February 2022

Since 2015, the United Nations has observed each 11 February as the International Day of Women and Girls in Science, noting that science and gender equality are both vital for the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals.

This year the CSIRO Staff Association is hosting a special online event with a focus on the theme of equity, diversity and inclusion: water unites us.

A conversation with Marlee Hutton
From 10.30 am AWST (1.30 pm AEDT, duration one hour)
Tuesday 22 February

Via WebEx - all CSIRO staff welcome, email csstaff@cpsu.org.au to attend

Marlee Hutton is a Bardi Jawi Marine Scientist from the Kimberley and has previously worked for the CSIRO in remote Northern Australia focusing on Dugong, Indigenous Coastal Development, Citizen Science and Science communication. Marlee has just started her new role as an Ecologist for the Kimberley Land Council where she will work with Indigenous Ranger groups to establish wildlife monitoring projects to understand current threats to scientifically and culturally important species.

Join the union today at www.csirostaff.org.au/join

Authorised Susan Tonks, Secretary CSIRO Staff Association

CSIRO STAFF ASSOCIATION

A section of the CPSU

